English 101 Placement
For questions about English placement, contact Lindsy Mason (lindsy.mason@mnsu.edu) or Matthew Sewell (matthew.sewell@mnsu.edu)

ACT Score 18 or above → ENG 101

ACT Score 17 or below → Accuplacer Reading Comprehension Test

77 or below ← 78 or above

ENG 101

Three options for fulfilling Gen. Ed. 1A:

1. ENG 103: Stretch Composition I + ENG 104: Stretch Composition II

ENG 103-104 is a two-semester sequence.
In ENG 103 and 104, you will do the same assignments that ENG 101 students do, only in two semesters, and with supplementary writing instruction and practice.
Courses are generally “linked” through a common instructor and class time.
Most students work with the same teacher and classmates both semesters.

Note: Students must complete ENG 104 to fulfill the Gen. Ed. 1A requirement. ENG 103 is a prerequisite to ENG 104.
Students cannot move from ENG 103 to ENG 101. If they take ENG 103, they must take ENG 104 to fulfill 1A.

2. ENG 100: Introduction to Composition + ENG 101: Composition

ENG 100 is a stand-alone course; it is not part of a sequence.
In ENG 100, you will work on basic writing skills, including sentence, paragraph, and essay practice.
After completing ENG 100, you must take ENG 101 to fulfill the general education requirement.
Students generally work with different teachers and different classmates in ENG 100 and ENG 101.

3. EAP 136: Introduction to Composition for Multilingual Writers + ENG 101: Composition

EAP 136 is designated for multilingual writers.
EAP 136 is a stand-alone course; it is not part of a sequence.
In EAP 136, you will work on basic writing skills, including sentence, paragraph, and essay practice.
After completing EAP 136 successfully, you must take ENG 101 to fulfill the general education requirement.
Students generally work with different teachers and different classmates in EAP 136 and ENG 101.

August 2016