URSI MANAGEMENT
GRADUATE STUDENT
BARRETT TUITION SCHOLARSHIP

The scholarship

The alumni and faculty of the Urban and Regional Studies Institute (URSI) recognize that graduate students need assistance in covering the increasing costs of tuition. To assist in this area URSI has created scholarships designed to assist in paying for the cost of tuition for full-time graduate students.

Barrett Management Scholarship Award

Due to the generous gifts provided by URSI alumni and faculty, the department is able to make management tuition scholarships available.

The Robert A. Barrett Scholarship provides tuition awards for graduate students who are pursuing a specialization in urban management (either the joint MA-URSI/Pub. Ad degree or MA-Urban Studies degree).

Each of the above awards will go toward the student’s portion (not to exceed $1000.00 each semester). Students with HUD Fellowships or other awards that pay the complete tuition costs, including employer reimbursement, will not be eligible for the URSI Tuition Scholarship. All scholarship applicants must be new or current full-time students who have earned a minimum 3.0 GPA in their URSI courses (or an undergraduate 3.0 GPA for newly entering graduate students).

Application Process

Entering URSI graduate students will be considered for a tuition scholarship upon application for the graduate program with the priority given to applications received prior to April 1. Current students can apply for the URSI Tuition Scholarship no later that 10 days after the official start of the semester in which the scholarship is desired. The application form is on the following page.
