Women in Psychology Scholarship

Jeanne Burkhart is a feminist, psychologist and philanthropist. It is through her generosity that the Women in Psychology scholarship is available to female psychology majors at Minnesota State Mankato.

Jeanne completed her undergraduate education at the University of Northern Colorado with majors in rehabilitation and psychology and a minor in women’s studies. She completed her Master of Arts degree in clinical psychology at Minnesota State Mankato and her Ph.D. in counseling psychology at Kent State. Jeanne now lives in Mankato where she co-owns and operates Adult, Child and Family Services.

Through her business, Jeanne provides in-home services for low-income, at-risk children and clinical counseling for low-income women. She also works through Mankato’s CADA House, providing on-site counseling for battered women. She serves on the Greater Mankato Diversity Council and teaches psychology part-time at Minnesota State Mankato.

This scholarship brings three of Jeanne’s passions together: education, psychology and helping other women. Successful applicants will be undergraduate female psychology majors planning a career in psychology, with a cumulative 3.5 GPA.
